

Federal Trade Commission

FTC.gov/Libraries

The Federal Trade Commission will be at ALA Annual 2017! Come see us in Booth #4551 and get free copies of our consumer resources for all your patrons. You probably serve a lot of different patrons – older people, military families, new arrivals, those navigating the immigration process or people with challenges reading English. You may be fielding questions that turn out to be related to a job scam or identity theft or an imposter trying to rip someone off. We have free bookmarks, brochures, videos and social media content for you to share with them.

And we want to hear from you! We're creating materials especially for librarians to use in their programming and community outreach. What kinds of scams and fraud do you hear about from patrons or see in the community? Do your visitors need information on managing money and credit, dealing with debt or other consumer topics? What kinds of materials would be most helpful to you? Do you reach patrons on social media? Newsletters? Drop by Booth #4551 to tell us!

Carol Kando-Pineda
ckando@ftc.gov